July 2024

Dear Child Care Professionals of Georgia:

You've probably heard by now that DECAL is revising the Quality Rated program. This is the first major revision since the program was established in 2012, and it presents an opportunity for us to reaffirm the core child care practices that help children grow, thrive, and succeed. Our hope is that the redesign of the rating process will also make the system more supportive and easier for providers to navigate.

When we at DECAL talk about high-quality child care, we're talking about the quality of child care environments that foster strong, positive relationships between young children and their classroom teachers, the other adults they interact with, and their peers. This understanding is shared across all DECAL programs—CAPS, CCS, Instructional Supports, Professional Development, Georgia's Pre-K, and Quality Rated.

Children's interactions with caregivers who are nurturing, supportive, and responsive to their needs and interests are the foundation of high-quality early care and learning, and this won't change with the new system.

The changes we will make with the new Quality Rated program are based in large measure on your feedback. Last year we collected extensive data from providers and other stakeholders about what it's like for you to complete the rating process. One of the things we heard from many providers is that the formal ERS observations can be stressful for classroom teachers and students. And therefore the ratings may not fully capture the quality of your work with children.

It is our goal for the new system to put you, the provider, in charge of a cycle of continuous quality improvement. You will have more options in the rating process, and we hope to include resources for a program improvement planning team. It is our plan to create a new structure that will make the formal observations more predictable and less stressful.

We will be soliciting feedback from providers and other stakeholders throughout the design and implementation of the new system. We held a webinar in May and fielded a stakeholder survey afterward. We are in the process of analyzing that feedback now, and we plan to hold another webinar later this year to update you on our progress.

We're all excited about creating a new system that works better for everyone, and we look forward to sharing it with you.

Sincerely,

Bentley Ponder
Deputy Commissioner for Quality Innovations & Partnerships

Qualities to Look for When Hiring a New Teacher

We all know how hard it is today to find quality staff. We tend to hire solely based on education or experience, or even just availability. But maybe we need to stop and take the time to read the people we are interviewing. When setting out to interview for new teachers for your program, try to look for the following qualities:

Empathy – Teachers and educators understand the moods and emotional highs and lows of infants, toddlers, and preschoolers. They know when a hug or high-five is needed.

Encouragement – They don't rely on Jedi mind tricks but rather words of encouragement to get children to try something new.

Patience – Early childhood educators know young children may need to be reminded multiple times to do something, how to do it, or not to do it at all. They can repeat themselves with a smile on their face every time.

Mastery of Time – On the flip side, early childhood educators are masters of time. They know how to handle toddlers and preschoolers running in different directions and how to stick to a schedule. They're masters at getting children to transition or move on to the next activity quickly and with ease.

Creativity – Teachers can make anything out of everyday items. There's nothing they can't do with glue, scissors, and some Pinterest inspiration. Want to see some of the fun things kids get to do at our YMCA child care programs? Get a glimpse of your child's day on our Twitter and Instagram feeds.

Fearlessness - Young children often find bugs, insects, and other creepy crawlies fascinating and teachers aren't afraid to get up close and personal with them even though inside, they're saying something completely opposite.

Transformation – Dramatic play is a big part of many early childhood education curriculums. Early childhood educators have no hang ups about getting into character and can transform into another person, animal, or object in a matter of seconds.

Adaptability – Every day is different with a classroom of infants, toddlers, or preschoolers; early childhood educators can adapt to children's interests easily with their plans B, C, D, E, F, and sometimes G.

Quality Rated Provider Highlight

Moore Love Kidz Hampton, GA, 3 - Stars!!!

Good day everyone, my name is Sharekka Moore, owner of Moore Love Kidz in Hampton, GA. Since becoming a licensed family child care learning home in 2022, our program has focused on helping each child learn and develop at their own pace.

When I was first introduced to the idea of becoming Quality Rated, I was nervous, but during the evaluation process in April 2024, our love and dedication shone through naturally, just like any other day. I was overjoyed to receive three stars on my first attempt and couldn't help but jump and cry for joy!

With this achievement, I believe the sky's the limit, and I'm proud to say that when you love what you do, it never feels like work.

~ Sharekka Moore /Owner

Invest in Your Child Care Program's Financial Future at the DECAL Thriving Child Care Business Academy

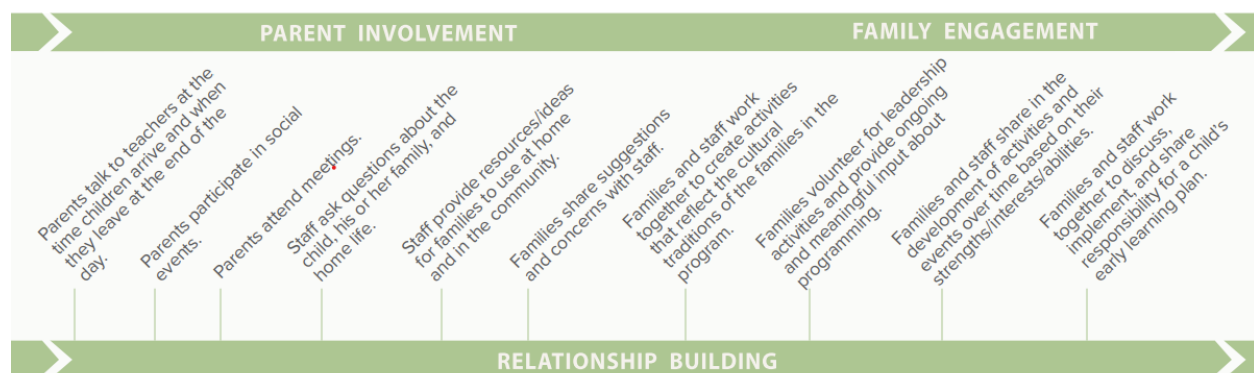

The DECAL Thriving Child Care Business Academy is back in session for 2024 with dynamic online training and resources to help Georgia child care businesses grow and prosper. The Academy houses a comprehensive range of large-group webinars, small study groups, individual coaching, and self-study guides covering topics in financial management, marketing, staff recruitment and retention, and leadership.

There are 1-hour training from Civitas Strategies, 2-hour sessions from the University of Georgia Small Business Development Center, and 3-hour modules from the National Center on Early Childhood Quality Assurance, all offering state-approved training hours. Providers can also take deeper dives into topics during four, 1-hour sessions with a small study group, after which they'll earn state-approved credit hours and a $300 stipend!

To start your Academy journey visit the website, then register for training @ <https://www.dec.al.gov/Thrive/SchedulesandRegistration.aspx> or sign up for the small study groups or 1-on-1 coaching @ wkf.ms/3SjtUPN

Family Child Care Environment Rating Scales-3 Training Series

This beginning-level training series will introduce Family Child Care Providers to the Environment Rating Scale (ERS) by taking a closer look at each area of the scale independently. Providers will gain insight into the different parts of the scale, what makes them developmentally appropriate, and the reason (the WHY) behind the requirements. Working in large groups, small groups, and individually, providers will have time to ask questions and gain confidence in their understanding of what is expected of them during the QR process.

These sessions will begin on Tuesday, August 1, and will run each Tuesday night through September 5.

Start time will be 6:30 pm each night and end times will vary.

Refer to the training calendar to check times and register for sessions, the cost is $5 per credit hour.
